CANADA WILL LAY CLAIM TO NEWLY FOUND ARCTIC ISLAND

Government Maintains It Is Part Of Territory

U. S. MAY DISPUTE

Former Minister Thinks Washington Will Make Claim

(Reuter's Service)

Ottawa, May 13.—The Canadian Government maintains that Wrangel Island is part of Canada's territory; the Canadian flag now flies over the island and an expedition is being prepared to go up there. This was the declaration of the Prime Minister, Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, when the House of Commons last night voted $15,000 for patrol of the northern waters of Canada.

Mr. G. H. Graham, Minister of Defence, said the amount was needed to publish the report of the Stefansson expedition. Mr. Hugh Guthrie, former Minister of Militia, said that there was no doubt that the United States would make claim to the island on the ground of previous discovery.

Law Students To Conduct Moot Trial

Exceptional interest is being shown in the public moot court trial which is to be conducted by students of the third year class of the Comparative Law School of China, Law Department of Soochow University at 4 p.m. today. The trial has been arranged as part of the commencement exercises of the school and will be conducted according to Mixed Court procedure, with Hon. Ponson C. Chu sitting as Chinese magistrate and Ronald S. Haskell, of Rodger and Haskell, as foreign assessor.

The graduation exercises at the school will be held at 4 p.m. tomorrow, Hon. Julean Arnold, U. S. Trade Commissioner to China, will deliver the commencement oration. Both the trial and the exercises take place at the School, 20 Quinsan Road.

Australia May Get New Cable

(Reuter's Service)

Victoria, B. C. May 15.—The directors of the Pacific Cable Board will meet next month in London to decide on the laying of a second cable between the Province of British Columbia and Australia, according to Mr. John Millward, representative of the Board who is on his way to London from Australia. It is understood that the Company will follow a different route for the new cable from the one followed by the present line. Mr. Millward says that the second cable will take two years to instal.

U. S. Will Suspend Potash Production

(China Press Service)

Washington, June 13.—The Senate Finance Committee agreed upon an amendment to the Tariff Bill under which potash production in the United States would be stimulated by a bounty from the Treasury instead of increasing the tax imposed on imports of potash. The bounty will extend over five years.

Syrian Agitator Must Re-Embark

Melbourne, June 14.—The Federal Government will permit the Rev. Ormuz, the Anglican minister to the Syrian community of Chicago, to land under guarantee that he will leave Australia by the next steamer.

Mr. Ormuz had previously been forbidden to land in Australia where he intended to lecture on the sufferings of the Syrians and the incongruity of the status of Indians in the Commonwealth with their recognised status in Mesopotamia.

American Co., S.V.C., Holds Annual Dinner

Voicing the appreciation of the Shanghai Municipal Council to every member of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, Mr. Sterling Fessenden, American member of the council and member of the Watch Committee, last night told members of the American Company, S. V. C., assembled at their first annual dinner at the American Club, that they did not realise how much reliance was being placed upon them.

The dinner, which was planned as the first of a yearly series, was in the nature of a farewell to Major S. A. Ransom, M. D., retiring commanding officer of the unit, and a greeting to his successor, Captain V. Olsen. Major Ransom is leaving the company to take up new duties with the headquarters staff. About seventy-five members of the company and many invited guests attended the affair last night.

"You men of the Volunteer Corps," said Mr. Fessenden in the course of his address, "do not realise how much we of the Council are forced to rely upon you. Conditions in Shanghai are constantly changing. Clouds appear on the horizon. We never know one day what the next will bring. Under conditions such as these, we must and can rely on you."

CAPT. OLSEN SPEAKS

The toast to the guests was proposed by Lieut. W. E. Sauer, Captain Olsen, who acted as toastmaster, replied with an address in which he reviewed the activities of the company both in the Volunteer Corps and in outside fields. He told of the company's success with the Washington Ball, at the regatta, and in rifle competitions. He then spoke of the change in the training season program and in this connection lauded Col. R. Marr Johnson, commandant of the corps.

Speaking of Dr. Ransom's affiliation with the Company, Captain Olsen declared that he wished to voice the appreciation of the unit for the many years of unselfish effort which had been given by the retiring commander to the unit. Dr. Ransom, in replying, thanked the men for the support that they had given him and congratulated them on the fact that they would have as their new commanding officer so able a man as Captain Olsen.

Colonel Johnson, on being called upon, based his remarks on Captain Olsen's references to the change in the training season program and declared that there had been similar splendid teamwork on the part of all of the companies in the corps, and notably the American Company. He said that it gave him great pleasure to note the aggressive character of the program set by the American Company.

QUICK MOBILIZATION

"The day is over," said Col. Johnson, "when we can afford to have in the Corps men who do not realize the absolute necessity for quick mobilization."

Following the address, a song was given by Private Blanchard, of the American Company, and sailors from the American destroyers in port staged a variety skit. They were: Chief Quartermasters S. Cohn and E. C. Pleoson, Seamen J. P. Hawky, Charles F. Quandt and George M. Dewey, and Cook C. M. Shattuck.

Arrangements for the dinner were handled by a committee headed by Captain V. Olsen as chairman and comprising G. E. Fowler, H. C. Illium, L. W. Strawn, E. L. McCloskey, A. L. Young, A. T. Cooper, and G. M. Neal.

United States Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham; the American members of the Municipal Council, Sterling Fessenden and V. G. Lyman; Colonel R. Marr Johnson, Commandant of the S. V. C.; Dr. W. T. Findlay, president of the American Club; Captain Whitney I. Eisler, Commander of Frederick Ward Post, American Legion; J. E. Doyle, managing editor of The Evening Star and officers of S.V.C. staff and units were the guests of the American Company.

Among the officers who were present as guests of the American volunteers were Major H. W. Pilcher, Captain A. M. Diniz of the Portuguese Company; Captain W. J. N. Dyer, Order officer; Captain A. J. Stewart, Assistant Adjutant; Corps Sergeant Major Leighton, Corps Quartermaster Sergeant W. T. Rose and Battery Sergeant Major C. S. Kemp.

LU YUNG-HSIANG RETIRES TO CARRY OUT OWN PROMISE

Chekiang Tuchun, First To Advocate Abolition Of Tuchunate, Resigning

Passengers arriving by the Hangchow night train last night brought the news that Tuchun Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang is contemplating retirement following a conference held yesterday with the military authorities, members of the local gentry and administrative officers in his province. He offers to retire in order to set an example to the other provinces that the tuchunate must go if the nation is to be saved.

A special train was ordered by him to come to Shanghai last night, but, it is understood, at the eleventh hour, prominent assemblymen, officials and gentry plead with him to remain in the Chekiang capital to maintain the peace and order of the province. The provincial assembly held an extraordinary meeting yesterday, but no definite decision was made on General Lu's proposed retirement.

General Lu was the first Tuchun in China to advocate the abolition of the Tuchunate two years ago. He considers the present time the most opportune for him to retire in order to show his firm determination that he desires to do what he says. On the other hand, a large section of the public opinion in Chekiang favors his retention as civil governor in view of the many achievements he made during his tenure of office in road construction and education.

WU CONSENTS TO MANDATE FOR 'SAVING CHANG'S FACE'

Will Not Avenge Perfidy, For Humane Reasons

HO SENDS WIRE

Military Governor Here Scores Li Yuan-hung

BY JOSEF W. HALL
Staff Correspondent the China Press

Peking, June 15.—General Wu Pei-fu has magnanimously given his accent to a presidential mandate which President Li Yuan-hung will issue tonight, the primary purpose of which will be to "save Chang Tso-lin's face."

General Wu explained that his attitude was prompted primarily by humane considerations, as the continued fighting is causing inexpressible suffering on account of the heat. Scores of wounded have died in box cars enroute to hospitals from the front.

Peking, June 15.—Tuesday's battle at Shanhaikuan has been followed by a complete lull, in which both armies are rushing up reinforcements and making fresh dispositions.

The famous 3rd Chihli Division is stated to have marched eastward from Luanchow yesterday. A brigade of the 11th Division left Kaiping for Changli yesterday evening. A portion of the 13th Division has already arrived at Kaiping.

Peking, June 15.—The Cabinet this morning resolved upon the following appointments:

Mr. Chang Yao-tseng, Chairman of the Extraterritorially Commission.

Dr. Wellington Koo, Chairman of the Financial Reform Association.

Mr. Li Chin, Resident Director of the Peking Municipal Council.

Mr. Shih Chi-chun, Vice-Minister of Justice.

Dr. Hawkling Yen, Assistant Director of Emigration and Labor.

Peking, June 15.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen is reported to have telegraphed to General Chen Chiungming offering to leave the Canton Administration entirely in the latter's hands while he proceeds with the anti-Northern expedition and vowing never to return to Canton if it does not succeed.

The following telegram, addressed to General Li Yuan-hung, has been handed to the Kuo Wen News Agency by General Ho Feng-ling, Military Governor of Sungkiang and Shanghai, for distribution:

"Great President Li, the gentleman who is temporarily carrying out the duties of president.

"I have already sent you two telegrams which I think you must have received. I desire to acknowledge your two telegrams and from these I learn that you have, in accordance with the demands of the people, re-entered political life temporarily to meet the present day needs.

"The present tenure of office is not in accordance with the laws. To force yourself upon the country under the pretext that you are acting in accordance with the laws, is only bringing about dissatisfaction. Whether or not you are in the right, will be decided in the future.

"You have laid aside the laws simply to meet the present day needs and therefore you have taken upon yourself a great responsibility. Your sudden decision to assume the presidency has taken all by surprise and it is an extraordinary decision which will be pardoned by most people for it is, as most know, done with the interests of the country at heart.

"It is my hope that you will do your best while you are in office to bring about national reunification in the country. In this movement you can be assured of my support.

"HO FENG-LING."

SHIPPING BOARD OFFICIAL DIES AT WASHINGTON

J. C. Frey, Vice President, Succumbs As Result Of Overwork

Captain W. I. Eisler, representative in Shanghai of the U. S. Shipping Board, received advices by cable yesterday of the death at Washington of Mr. J. C. Frey, vice president of the U. S. Shipping Board in charge of operations.

Mr. Frey some two months ago suffered a breakdown due to overwork, and had been unable to regain his strength despite the efforts of physicians. His death is mourned by everyone connected with the Shipping Board who had occasion to come in contact with him personally or through the work which he was doing. Mr. Frey was responsible for the recent appointment of Mr. R. C. Morton as general representative of the Shipping Board in the Far East.

For many years, Mr. Frey was assistant to Mr. R. P. Schwerin, vice president and general manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and was widely known among shipping men. He joined the Shipping Board about a year ago.

"Mr. Frey's untimely death was undoubtedly due to overwork," said Captain Eisler yesterday. "He was thoroughly familiar with all angles of the shipping business, and during the time that he has been in charge of operations for the Shipping Board he has given himself without stint in the interests of his country."

Canton Presents Demands To Macao

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 15.—The Canton Government has presented five demands to the Macao Government in connection with the recent affair at Macao. The demands are (1) that due apology should be made to the Canton Government by the Portuguese Government, (2) the punishment of officers and soldiers and police responsible for the shooting incident, (3) that compensation should be given to the families of those persons killed and the payment of medical expenses of those wounded, by the Portuguese Government, (4) the repatriation of African soldiers and (5) the prohibition of gambling at Macao.

Charge Alteration Of Plans In Suit Against Architects

Allegations that the plans had been altered after they had been signed were made by Mr. N. H. Langley Smith, counsel for Mrs. L. E. B. Freeman in the British Supreme Court before Judge Peter Grain yesterday in connection with the suit for Taels 4,000 which Mrs. Freeman has brought against the architects, Cumine and Milne for faulty construction of a house on Route Say Zoong.

Mr. T. Freeman also declared that the original plans provided for verandahs of a size wanted and that the dotted lines on the plans were put in when Mrs. Freeman signed them.

"Dominoes" No Longer Gallop On The Roper

By Irene Corbally

In the good old days it used to be that the army played poker and the navy shot craps. Now, the army still plays poker but the navy plays mah jongg.

The U. S. S. "Roper," the "Johnnie Roper," as her boys call her, has an interesting log since she was commissioned in 1919 at Philadelphia. A new chapter on the Chinese game of mah-jongg is now being written.

The "Roper," named in memory of Lieutenant-Commander Jesse Mims Roper, who died in an effort to save one of his men on the "Petrel," has been anchored in China waters longer, perhaps, than any other ship in the squadron. She was on independent duty as commander of the South China patrol during January and February of this year while the shipping strike was in progress in Hongkong. While this was the crew's first glimpse of China, it was such a long look that it took in the superior advantages of man-jongg over that other little game played with ivories of a different shape.

The ship, according to its men, never boasts, but they all unite in declaring it is a happy ship and blame their contentment on their "comical" steward who gives them plenty to eat of the best chow in the squadron. Said "comical" steward, Nicholas Valentine Rottler, was bashfully hiding behind the chop suey which was being prepared yesterday when I was on board and I never did learn whether the "comical" referred to his personality or whether it was a seaman's facetious play on his rating of commissary steward.

AMERICAN CHOP SUEY

"We get chop suey here that the Chinese don't know how to make," said one of the men in answer to "why do you eat Chinese food on board." Having searched the length and breadth of Shanghai, unsuccessfully, for some of the kind of chow mein with the crisp noodles that one gets at home, I could sympathise with and understand the steward's ambition to give the boys American chop suey in China where it is unknown!

The "Roper," whose log shows that after a shakedown cruise when she was commissioned, she sailed for European waters for independent duty at Constantinople, returned to New York on orders and then went to Newfoundland as the station ship for the Trans-Atlantic flight of airplanes.

Not content with this prestige, she escorted Ex-President Wilson into Boston harbor from his trip abroad. Then she left for duty with the Pacific fleet, going through the Panama Canal. The destroyer remained with the Pacific fleet until July of last year when she left San Francisco for duty in the Far East and was attached to the U. S. Asiatic fleet.

Wardroom and seamen's mess alike on the "Roper" are unusually interesting, the first in appearance and personal, the second in personalities. The wardroom has just been redecorated, in French chintz in tan and blue stripes, with curtains of dark blue to match. Mrs. Manley, wife of the commander, was the artistic genius who transformed the simple ship's room into a pleasant and livable meeting place for officers and visitors.

THE "DOWNSTAIRS"

Below, or downstairs, as laymen like myself always stutteringly and akwardly insist on saying, the collection of youngsters on the ship—and the "Roper" has, perhaps, the largest number of young seamen aboard—includes, besides the mah-jongg stars, such characters as Rees and Wink, a couple of sea going lawyers who, according to their shipmates, can argue anyone into shipping over and into the correct way

Dr. Huang Yen-pei Declines Peking's Education Portfolio

Interviewed by a representative of The China Press yesterday on his appointment as Minister of Education in the new Cabinet in Peking, Dr. Huang Yen-pei authorised The China Press to announce that he will not accept the post. An official telegram inviting him to go up to Peking to accept the portfolio has been received by Dr. Huang. But he is firm in his decision to decline the appointment.

Dr. Huang was appointed to the same position by Liang Shih-yi when the latter was premier, but his firm refusal created a profound impression in Shanghai and Peking. Dr. Huang will continue to devote his efforts to educational work in Kiangsu.

DESTROYER SQUADRONS TO REMAIN HERE UNTIL JULY 5

Shanghai Now Scene Of Concentration Of U. S. Fleet

BUFFALO IN PORT

More Than 3,000 Men To Be Here For Fourth Celebration

Shanghai, during the next three weeks, will witness what is believed to be the greatest concentration of American Navy vessels in the history of any port in the Far East aside from Manila. Practically the entire American Asiatic fleet, including the U. S. S. Huron, the flagship of the fleet, the U. S. S. Buffalo, and eighteen destroyers will remain in port here until July 5. More than 3,000 men are included in the crews of the various vessels.

Original plans had provided that the eighteen destroyers, which have been here for a week, were to go to Chefoo about June 20 and remain there for the summer. Yesterday, however, orders were issued by Rear-Admiral Joseph Strauss, commander-in-chief of the fleet, which will keep the destroyer squadrons here until July 5 in order that the men may participate in the Fourth of July celebration here.

In addition to the U. S. S. Huron, which arrived here Wednesday, the U. S. S. Buffalo, mother ship of the destroyer squadrons, is in port now, having steamed up the river from Woosung late yesterday. All of the vessels came here from Manila. The Huron has a complement of 55 officers and 884 men, and the Buffalo approximately 450 men. Both the Huron and the Buffalo have bands aboard, and these, it is expected, will participate in the Fourth of July celebration, as well as providing music at the various baseball games and other entertainments which are now being arranged.

BIG DANCE TONIGHT

The U. S. S. Albany, which is to be scrapped under the terms of the agreement on Limitation of Armaments, left for home on June 5, by way of Midway and Guam, and aside from the U. S. S. New Orleans, which is now at Vladivostok, awaiting a relief, the destroyer Tracy at Hongkong, and the Hart and Rizal of the mine laying force, at Manila, the entire fleet is here.

With the fleet remaining here instead of going to Chefoo as soon as originally planned, preparations for entertainment of the visiting American gobs are going forward apace. One of the chief features on the entertainment program this week will be the Navy "Y" dance, to be held at the Town Hall tonight under the auspices of the American Woman's Club. Mrs. John Nichols is in charge of arrangements for the affair, and Mr. George Fitch will be floor manager. The hall will be decorated with many flags from the ships. Music will be furnished by the U. S. S. Huron band and the orchestra of the destroyer squadron. Special features will be songs by sailors and children's dances during the intermission. Refreshments will be served. Dancing begins at nine o'clock.

A sailor's show will be given at the Navy "Y" on Saturday. Ewing Clark, hypnotist from the U. S. S. Dorsey will give a demonstration with his fellow gobs as subjects, and there will be vocal and instrumental music. A movie, William S. Hart in "Wagon Tracks," will be shown afterward.

TO GREET DENBY

The U. S. S. Huron, which is now moored opposite the French Bund, is expected to go to Yokohama in July to greet Secretary of the Navy Denby, who is due to arrive in Yokohama July 2, and in Shanghai July 17. The Huron is commanded by Captain C. D. Stearns.

The personnel of the officers aboard the Huron, in addition to the fleet staff is as follows: Captain C. D. Stearns, Lt-Commander L. B. Green, Lt- Commander R. C. Giffen, Lt-Com. J. H. Holt, Lieut. B. Perlman, Lieut J. H. Duncan, Lieut. L. P. Lovette, Lieut. (jg) J. Buchalter, Lieut. (jg) J. R. Lannom, Ensigns A. R. Buehler, W. L. Travis, R. R. Miller, R. D. Hill, jr., H. C. Hamilton, C. Bell, T. C. Brownell, D. E. Carlson, W. L. Drybread,

D. L. Erwin, D. A. Frost, C. H. Judson, E. J. Kirby-Smith, J. H. McWilliams, M. C. Thompson, Lieut. M. D. Willcutts, M. C., Lieut. R. D. Reid, MCDC. Commander E. H. Douglass, Lieut. A. J. Hayes, Captain J. F. Talbot, USMC, Lieut. C. S. Stevens, USMC, Chief Machinist C. S. Hansel, Boatswain A. N. Anderson, Gunner F. Myers, Machinist A. H. Mellien, Gunner W. H. Strand Hotel At Tsingtao Opens For 1922 Season

The Strand Hotel, on the bathing beach at Tsingtao, opened for the season yesson yesterday, the management serving a special dinner last night and the orchestra from the Wagon-Lits Hotel in Peking playing for the first dance of the summer.

The Grand Hotels, Ltd., which operates the Strand, Grand and Grand Annex, has taken over the Prinz Heinrich Hotel, which adjoins the Grand Annex, and this will allow the management to make reservations for many Shanghai people who have made applications and were refused because of the limited accommodations. The Prinz Heinrich addition means 25 more bedrooms and arrangements have been made to enlarge the dining room at the Grand Annex to accommodate the additional guests. The hotels are again under the management of Timothy Herliby.

Small Crop Prospect Sends Cotton Prices Up

(Reuter's Service)

New York, May 19.—The cotton market continued its upward trend and made new high records for the season this week. It is evident that the trade is beginning to realise the possibilities of a small crop this year, with a big consumption and much of the support during the week came from the mills who have been unable to secure spot cotton in the South and have bought futures to protect themselves. Bulls point to the market's action as a vindication of their repeated warnings that high prices would be seen this spring, and believed that the upturn has only just begun, unless there should be abnormally favorable crop conditions during the balance of the season.

To the damage and delay caused by heavy and general rains in the Southwest have been added the abandonment of thousands of acres in Texas, at least temporarily, because of flooded lowlands. Some estimates place this at around 200,000 acres, which have normally produced about 150,000 bales, but it is agreed that much of this can be replanted and will be, if seed can be obtained and the floods subside in time to reseed by June 1. Of course, all such late cotton will be threatened by boll weevil which it is claimed are more numerous this spring than in many years. In addition, some of the best cotton lands of the lower Mississippi valley have been inundated by the breaking of levees, flooding other thousands of acreage devoted to cotton.

Naturally bulls made the most of such rain news and the public operate on the buying side with great freedom, causing a technical situation which some of the more conservative traders regarded as rather unfavorable towards the close of the week. In fact, many of the commission houses openly advocated taking profits on long cotton and waiting for a reaction which they felt was due after such a violent upturn, although ninety percent of them proclaim bullish convictions on the market for the long run.

With exports past the five million mark and weekly takings remarkably large considering the New England strike situation, it is more than ever evident that a crop in excess of 12 million bales is needed this season to prevent very much higher prices during the summer. In any event, it is safe to assume that the market will be unusually sensitive to weather and crop news all season and bulls will be prompt to magnify every unfavorable report.

There has been some curiosity in the trade as to the effect of the overflows on boll weevil. This question was put up to the Government Bureau of Entomology which stated "We have never found a case where extensive overflows have reduced the weevil to the extent that the crop has been greatly benefited. It is true that some weevils are always killed by overflows but there are survivors in the trees and in the highlands immediately surrounding the overflowed areas.

"When these areas are replanted the crop is late, in fact so late that the weevils left are able to overtake the production of fruit. Taken altogether we do not consider it safe to plant cotton on land that has been overflowed this year with the expectation that it will not suffer from weevil attack."

The pink boll worm question has been revived again through an advertisement in a Dallas paper quarantining against pink boll worm nineteen counties in Texas, six in New Mexico and four in Louisiana. These counties in Texas produced in 1920 a total of about 340,000 bales, one, Ellis, being the greatest producing county in the State. The Louisiana counties affected grew 56,000 bales in 1920. It is thus evident that the Government is keeping a strict watch on the progress of the worm and fully realises its menace to the cotton crop unless checked through radical restrictions in all sections where it has been found.

With the advance in raw cotton there has been a corresponding improvement in cotton goods prices, although buyers have been slow to accept the advance. It is believed by cloth merchants however, that if cotton prices keep steady for another week or so there will be a general resumption of buying in the goods market which in turn should mean mill buying of raw cotton. It is believed that as a result of conservative buying in the past, retailers have very low stocks which they will be anxious to replenish if cotton holds its present advance.

Memphis reports that demand for spot cotton has been general there this week, coming from Southern and Eastern mills, Liverpool, Havre and Bremen. It is believed that unsold stocks throughout the South are smaller than those of a year or two ago.

Sentiment at the close of the week remains bullish, but is more conservative after the recent big advance, and many are anticipating some reaction, on which they strongly advise making new purchases. Most commission houses believe only an exceptional season can avert much higher prices later in the year.

London, June 14.—It is understood that the negotiations in London regarding the draft of the South-Irish Constitution have reached a result generally regarded as satisfactory to all parties concerned.

"Dominoes" No Longer Gallop On The Roper

to live, if they are just given a chance. In other words, they will talk you into or out of anything, if you just let them get a start on you.

Then there is Luke, the bo'sun's mate, who has been on the ship ever since she was commissioned. Luke and the other old-timers are all anxious to go back, when orders come, via Constan instead of just to the West Coast.

Harry S. Dorrington, a youngster who presides over the destiny of the office on board ship and showed me over it to prove that it is every bit as seaworthy and tiptop as the famous office on the "Zane," is the director of naval shows when he is not Underwooding. He has put over a number of good skits and extravaganzas, the latest one being "Krazyatics," given recently in Manila. The show, according to press notices, came off with a bang, despite the fact that Dorrington was unable to give it his usual fine polish owing to the fact that the squadron was awaiting orders and didn't know just when it would sail.

A REEL HERO

From theatricals to movies, brings into the limelight one Dale E. Thorpe, a towering blue-eyed blonde, who, when he gets tired of being a sailor can decorate several reels of film as the hero in any movie drama. Just what Thorpe's shipmates think of his Apollo-like grandeur is best expressed in their own words in the exceptionally free verse one of the boys handed to me.

"Here's to Dale Elden Thorpe,
"Handsome as the day is long.
"Eyes as blue as the skies above.
"Hair as flaxen and curly as the famous hero.
"Beautiful to gaze at, oh my, yes,
"But what a shame he is so tall!"

Just why Dale's height should be cause for worry is something I left the "Roper" without discovering.

The same booster for the blonde Norseman up-to-date is the best publicity agent the ship has. On deck with the radio man, S. E. Herbst, and a couple of the other boys, Johnson and Kessler, owners of the most gorgeous tattooing that ever adorned a sailor's arm, the p. a., young Mr. Dorrington, said that the "Roper" is the most economical ship in the squadron.

"We don't bother the tender only when something turns up that the crew can't fix, and that is seldom," he said. The tender, by the way, is the destroyer "Buffalo," the mother ship of the whole brood of 18 destroyers in the Asiatic squadron. She hovers in the offing as a litter fixer whenever the gobs have a job of repairs they can't carry through themselves.

And the "Roper," besides having a good record in engineering,—she successfully passed her full power trials held just prior to coming to Shanghai—boasts the best gyro-compass in the squadron. The manipulator of this mammoth and exact compass, so superior to the magnetic compass, was too bashful to come out and prove its superiority over those on the other ships and I took the gobs' word for it.

Wu Ting-fang supporting General Wu Pei-fu's telegram urging Dr. Wu to come to Peking. General Yen adds that "the country has been in the throes of civil war for several years and to such an extent that the nation's virility is threatened." He says that General Wu Pei-fu is sincerely anxious for reunification in the interests of the people and he (General Yen) therefore hopes that Dr. Wu will come to Peking immediately, as the latter's presence at Peking would aid materially in the breaking down of barriers and in clearing a way towards a general understanding and complete reunification.

Peking, June 15.—The Waichiaopu yesterday evening despatched a Note to the Diplomatic Corps, saying that as the Chinese Government had notified the foreign Ministers of Mr. Hsu Shih-chang's retirement the Foreign Office now informed the Diplomatic Corps that General Li Yuan-hung had assumed the Presidency.

Peking Confident Dr. Sun Will Cease Opposition

(China Press Service)

Peking, June 12.—Under the urge of his Ministers, President Li Yuen-hung this morning signed a mandate appointing Dr. Wu Ting-fang to the Premiership. Intimations from Canton are that the old gentleman will accept although no direct promise nor word of any kind has been received from him. Contemporaneously with the appointment of Wu as Premier, W. W. Yen has been asked to continue in the Acting Premiership and he is prepared to carry on indefinitely in the event of delay in Wu's arrival in Peking.

As Dr. Wu is now the responsible civil head of Kwangtung Province some time will be required for him to turn over to his successor in event that he should be inclined to come to Peking. It is believed that he will not leave Canton until the situation in regard to the Kuomingtang party is cleared up and Sun Yat-sen has either made his last stand or consents to retire in favor of Chen Chiung-ming, who is looked to by the establishers of the new Government in Peking to bring Kwantung and the southeast into line. It is predicted here that if Chen plays his part well he also will ultimately find a place in the administration in Peking.

It is believed that Sun Yat-sen will gracefully yield to the inevitable and retire if opportunity is generously granted him to take credit for the program now being carried out and to appear as the saviour of China's fils. In all fairness it must be allowed that it was Sun who kept alive the constitutional tradition in China at a time when any return to a constitutional basis was thought to be beyond the realm of possibility by Northern leaders.

Li Yuan-hung, it is understood, still insists that Wu Pei-fu accept the portfolio of war in addition to the post of Commandant of the Chinese National Army. As a compromise it is possible that Wu will accept the post on the understanding that he is not required to reside in Peking, where an Acting Minister of War will attend the Cabinet in his stead. It is expected here that Tsao Kun will pay a visit to the new President after Wu's return to Paotingfu.

Chang Tso-lin has wired privately to Tsao Kun stating that with the deposition of Hsu Shih-chang as President, the desire of his heart has been fulfilled and he is now willing to retire into private citizenship. General Tsao has replied that on that basis he will receive Chang Tso-lin again as a brother citizen, friend and relative. It is believed here that the pressure being exerted on Chang by his own men will cause his retirement into private life but he is now regarded as a factor making for the strength of the new administration rather than as an enemy or traitor. It is probable that after suitable time has elapsed President Li Yuan-hung will rescind the mandates outlawing him which were issued by Hsu Shih-chang.

Chang Apparently Violated Armistice

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, June 13 (delayed).—Heavy fighting continued around Shanhaikuan yesterday. Hitherto over 1,300 Chihli wounded have arrived in Tientsin while others have been taken to the hospital at Tongshan.

It is reported that the Fengtien attacks were repulsed. The Chihli forces advanced slightly but the battle so far is indecisive.

A great number of Chihli reinforcements, including the 3rd Division, have left for Shanhaikuan. Apparently the Fengtien leaders agreed to an armistice and to the reinstatement of President Li Yuan-hung and then made a surprise attack.

Peking, June 14.—The latest information shows that General Chang Tso-lin requested General Wu Pei-fu to enter into an armistice and when General Wu Pei-fu agreed General Chang Tso-lin immediately prepared an attack which the Fengtien forces launched on Saturday but which did not meet with success.

Prior to hurriedly returning to Paotingfu on Monday General Wu Pei-fu explained the necessity for his superintending the rushing up of reinforcements.

Chang's sudden attack on the Chihli troops is now explained. Chang had asked for and understood he would receive, on the assumption of Li Yuan-hung as President, a mandate ordering cessation of hostilities, thus allowing him to quit operations without loss of face.

The mandate was overlooked in the crush of business and Chang became peevish. In order to show that his soldiers still would die at his command, he attacked. Chang has again pledged his fealty as a private citizen, and repudiated having any connection with Lu Yung-hsiang's opposition and that of Dr. Sun Yat-sen as well.

If Wu Pei-fu now will overlook Chang's perfidy in ordering the attack, Peking likely will arrange matters to Chang's satisfaction, ending hostilities and accepting Chang's resignation while asking him to assume responsibility for order in Manchuria pending the reorganisation of the nation's military affairs.

Acording to the military intelligence officers of Paotingfu, the Chihli losses became much less after they had advanced beyond the point upon which the Fengtien guns were trained, although the fighting in the sand dunes is reported as still sanguinary.

Dr. Sun Threatens To Use Navy On Obstinate Troops

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, June 14.—Dr. Sun is alleged to have despatched a message to the Southern Fleet, saying that on June 12 he gave instructions for the withdrawal from Canton of all troops belonging to General Chen Chiung-ming, and adding that if the troops should refuse to withdraw within ten days, the Fleet is requested to bombard them with naval guns.

Outcry Against Wu For War Post

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, June 15.—With regard to the question whether General Wu Pei-fu will assume the portfolio of Minister of War, Presidential circles take the view that an approval having been obtained from General Wu Pei-fu in this matter, all matters relative to military affairs shall be disposed of in his name. Political circles in Paotingfu, however, are raising an outcry against the step taken by the Government on the ground that the faction under President Li has a secret scheme to secure whole military power for itself. In this connection, a well-informed Chinese politician makes the following statement:

"At the moment when General Wu and his faction had almost succeeded in prevailing upon General Li to resume the Presidency, General Li tendered a proposal for the selection of Cabinet Ministers first, declaring that the Cabinet question should be solved before everything, or he would not enter Peking. Cabinet Ministers mentioned in the proposal are the same as was recently announced by a Presidential Mandate. Needless to say, General Wu Pei-fu is included in the list as Minister of War.

"Though General Wu originally had no intention of assuming the portfolio, he has at length agreed for fear that the question of installing General Li as President may otherwise be brought to a deadlock."

Foreign Office Warns Against Provincial Loans

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 12.—In a further letter from the Waichiaopu to Foreign Ministers in Peking the Chinese Foreign Office pointed out, with reference to the complications constantly caused by the provinces borrowing money from foreign merchants on the security of railways and mines, that the Chinese Foreign Office had repeatedly notified the Diplomatic Body that no provincial loan made with foreign merchants would be considered valid unless it had first received the sanction of the Central Government.

In this letter it was again specially declared that hereafter if any provincial organ, no matter of whom composed, pledged secretly to foreigners, whether by mortgage, sale, lease or loan, either the mines or railways of the locality, or land, the land tax or other tax, or other class of government owned business, such contracts would be deemed absolutely null and void unless the sanction of the Central Government had been applied for and obtained.

Li To Call Great Conference On Tuchunate Issue

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, June 15.—President Li Yuan-hung yesterday invited Dr W. W. Yen and all Cabinet Ministers and other influential persons to a conference at which there was discussion on the subject of the abolition of the Tuchunate and the curtailment of soldiery.

As the result of the conference it has been decided that President Li is to issue a circular telegram requesting the Tuchuns to send delegates to Peking to a great national conference on these issues. It was also announced that a preparatory office is to be established in Tientsin or Peking in connection with the abolition of Tuchunate and the curtailment of soldiery.

Nanchang Quiet After Many Rumors

(Special Correspondence)

Nanchang, June 10.—Nanchang seems to have tired of its fear and acceptance of wars and rumors of wars. The agitation reached its height on the day of the Dragon Boat Festival when persistent rumors emanating from the Tujun's yamen convinced everyone that the Tujun had fled and left the city to the mercy of the soldiers and hooligans, who are said to be organised into a secret society, the Hung Kiang Hui, and even more greatly feared than are the northern soldiers themselves.

At one mission definite threats of looting were made and the foreign women spent the night in boats on the river while the men guarded the property. The city was almost disappointed to find the next morning that nothing had happened and a day later to discover that the Tujun had never left the city.

At the request of the Chamber of Commerce, he rode through the streets in an open chair to put an end to the rumors. In spite of this assurance Chinese continued for several days to beg refuge in the foreign compounds for their women and valuables. The rule adhered to was no valuables, but refuge for women and babies, insofar as space was available. Finally even the more timid ones were dissuaded and in spite of bad news from the south rumors of all kinds seem to have slumped in value and every one is again calm.

WATCH THE FRUIT YOUR CHILDREN EAT.

Whilst most ripe, sound fruits are good for children there is danger in fruit which is green, over-ripe or damaged, among the least of the evils to be feared from such fruit being acute indigestion, diarrhoea and worms.

When you have reason to suspect that your child has eaten fruit of a doubtful character the best course is to administer a dose of Baby's Own Tablets at once, for these Tablets quickly but gently cleanse the stomach, and can be given with absolute safety even to the youngest or most delicate infant.

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are also a specific for teething troubles, constipation, colds and croup. They bring calm, natural, health-giving sleep and promote regular development. From chemists, or direct and post free at 60 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

U. OF CALIFORNIA GLEE CLUB PLANS CONCERTS HERE

Collegians To Appear At Olympic Theater On Five Nights

America's greatest company of college entertainers, the University of California Glee Club, will arrive in Shanghai for a series of performances on June 24. The collegians are now touring Japan, where they have been giving concerts and dances since late in May.

Two years ago the University of California songsters visited Shanghai, and their entertainments proved very popular. The return trip this year is the result of the successful reception accorded the Americans in 1920. Twenty-eight men are in the Glee Club party this year, which is under the direction of C. R. Morse, veteran college man and musician. The Californians have arranged to play for five nights following their arrival of the Golden State, and they have secured the Olympic Theater for their performances.

With the entertainers is a ten piece jazz band, and a number of instrumental soloists who were enthusiastically received in the Hawaiian Islands and in Japan this trip, according to press notices. Earl Reed, saxaphone soloist, and Albert King, pianist, will be featured by the students during their stay in Shanghai. Reed is declared by the visitors to be the successor of Charles Strickfadden, who made the trip two years ago. Strickfadden is now playing at the Knickerbocker Grill in New York, and is one of the highest paid dance musicians in America. King recently returned from a six months concert tour of Europe, and after completing the present tour with the collegians he will return to the Continent to fill a twenty months' contract.

Other numbers on the Glee Club program, in addition to the regular chorus songs, are acts by Harold Girvin, Jack Cole, and George Taylor, three comedians from the university campus. Vocal soles, a saxaphone quartet, and other vaudeville numbers complete the three programs prepared by the students for the tour.

The performances at the Olympic will be given on the evenings of June 24, 25, 26, 27 and 28, and later the students will play for one or two cabaret dances at the Astor House. They will leave Shanghai for Manila on July 1. During their stay here they will be entertained by the University of California Club and by other local organisations.

Wreck Reports Were Overdrawn

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, June 15.—It transpires that the first report of the collision between the Kingsing and the Lungshun, which reached the office of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson here, made the affair much more serious than it really was.

The accident happened at Salt Reach at an acute bend of the river. The Kingsing, which was unable to see the other boat until almost on her, struck her amidships and on the bow on the port side. The Lungshun looked like going over but righted herself and was beached. Subsequently she listed heavily on the port side and took in a great deal of water. Only the fact that she was settled in the mud saved her. The 600 coolies on board, who were bound for Newchwang, were taken on board a lighter and other craft to a neighboring village. There was no panic among them at any time.

A cursory examination of the Lungshun, which is Japanese owned, did not reveal very heavy damage, although enough to sink her in deep water. The Kingsing suffered some injury to her bows but was easily able to reach Tientsin. There were no casualties on either ship.

Carlton To Be Host To Navy Men Tonight

The Carlton Cafe management announces that the Carlton will give a complimentary frog leg supper at 12 o'clock tonight to more than one hundred officers of the destroyer squadrons and other American naval vessels now anchored in the river.

Since the arrival of the warships in Shanghai the Carlton has been a nightly meeting place of many of the officers, and the management of the cafe, now wishing to be outdone by others in the city who are entertaining the visitors, decided upon the supper as a suitable method of showing appreciation of the visit of the fleet to Shanghai.

Manager Ellis also announces that the ice fountain has been remodeled, and that under the improved arrangement the big blocks of ice that are placed in the fountain retain their iciness all evening, instead of dissolving almost instantly as they did the first evening, when they were set afloat in a tank of water. A ceiling fan directly above the ice fountain distributes the coolth all over the ball room, making it ten degrees cooler than normal.

Tonight, with all the white starched uniforms and the miles of gold braid, and the ice fountain and Joe Aronson's orchestra on the job, promises to be a big night.

Judo Boxing Wrestling Tournament To Be Held At Town Hall Tomorrow

Unique Competition Opposes Defense Arts Of West Against Jiu Jitsu

Perhaps the most unique sporting tournament ever seen in Shanghai or in China will be staged tomorrow night at the Town Hall when some of the best Class "B" jiu jitsu men of Japan meet boxers and wrestlers of America and Europe under absolutely catch-as-catch-can conditions. Arrangements for the competitions were finally made yesterday.

There are to be four main bouts in which jiu jitsu men will compete with the exponents of Western self defense. Two will be between boxers and jiu jitsu men and two between Japanese and wrestlers. There will probably be other items of good sporting value added to the card.

The men who will oppose the Japanese as boxers are one J. J. Corbett, a middleweight who has been matched against I. Kiyokawa, a 5 foot 1 inch, 125 lb. jiu jitsu expert, and Nick Boyle, a welter weight boxer recently from Manila. The latter will meet one of the best of the Japanese, K. Kawashima.

The wrestlers signed for the tournament are Constantine Schmidt, an 170 lb. Esthonian with a big reputation in Russia from Harbin to Riga, and J. Walter, a big German mat-man. Schmidt perhaps is the best equipped man of the challengers. He has a good knowledge of American and of French boxing, and is here fresh from a seven-month sojourn in Japan where he has engaged in friendly jiu jitsu exhibitions. Walter also has a knowledge of boxing. Schmidt is matched against F. Matsumoto. Walter will meet H. Honda.

A special ring, a trifle larger than the regulation boxing ring is being constructed for the tournament. Special rules for the bouts have been written. When wrestlers compete three 10 minute rounds will govern the timing; for the boxing-jiu jitsu events, six 2-minute rounds will be fought. There will be one Japanese referee, an expert in jiu jitsu, and one other judge, to decide the boxing and wrestling points.

For the wrestling bouts, catch-as-catch-can rules will apply. A boxer may win by a knockout. A jiu jitsu man may use any judo hold; he may throw his opponent over his head to the floor for the decision, or he may choke him into submission as he chooses.

The tournament commences at 9:15 p.m.

BAER SAYS 'BUGS'

CIVIC PRIDE RAN RAMPANT!

Even The Roughtown Lamp Posts Were Decorated With Statue-Like Citizens

BY "BUGS" BAER

Chronic citizen writes in from Mamm, Texas, to swear, affirm and testify that his town was so tough that flappers wore mustard plasters for beauty spots.

Before being incriminated any thicker into this argument, it is wise to state that all we can do is to take his word for it. But out in Roughtown, the girls considered carbolic acid and rattlesnake venom in the light of cosmetics.

Statue of Civic Pride that has raised so many eyebrows in New York was mere jumble of childhood's building blocks compared to effigy of Municipal Arrogance erected to survivors of Roughtown's annual silo fiesta.

It was a lifelike portrait of a suburban gladiator driving a team of redhot artillery across the chest of sleeping Justice, who was impersonated by blind kewpie. There was a heroic figure of Honor throwing sevens with loaded dice, while Justice was dealing a decision from the bottom of the marked deck. Manhood was typified by a souse chinning himself on a gutter, while over him was a bottle of Bromo Seltzer suspended by a single block-and-fall.

The statue was carved out of pure Vermont quarry buttons and Board of Nonsense as being too effeminate and liable to warp the budding intellects of their better class of morons.

Life in the West was not all painted geraniums on the kitchen linoleum. They were men in those days. This contest is not being established to promote antagonism between our chartered cities, but has for its fundamental rumors the hyping up of music, burglary sciences, arson, and the other fine arts.

Between grizzly picnics, progressive shooting parties and tar-and-fine-feather bazaars, you might naturally wonder how anybody ever got old enough in Roughtown to outgrow his first pair of baby shoes.

But that's true of the entire West. After reading about Buffalo Billiam, Wild Bill Lyons and other six-gun pupils, how did anybody ever live to grow up old enough to point a gun?

Must have been the climate in the West. Shooting was a tonic.

Shanghai Meets Flagship Huron Nine Today; Series With California Assured

Game Today Starts At 4:45; Doubleheader Tomorrow; Many Games In Sight

Commencing this afternoon the Shanghai Baseball Club will start on a three weeks series of severe baseball. The arrival of the flagship Huron and the mother ship Buffalo yesterday and the promised arrival of the California university nine a week from Saturday insures local fans a fine long spell of first class games, the best they have been offered this year.

The Californians' advance man arrived in Shanghai yesterday, and immediately was approached for dates for a schedule of games. He was keen for the idea, and, while nothing definite was agreed upon, it is practically certain that a four game series will be played with the Native Sons, commencing perhaps the day after their arrival here, June 25. The party remains in Shanghai one week.

The Huron nine which plays Shanghai this afternoon commencing at 4:45 p.m. is reported as having a stronger team than that which worried Shanghai a year ago. The team has lost their star southpaw pitcher, Weaver, and one or two others of their best of 1921, but replacements and new tryouts, it is said, have built the nine to a strength never reached before.

A doubleheader will be played tomorrow with the Buffalo opposing the flagship at 2:15 o'clock to be followed by a game between the 37th Destroyer Division and Shanghai. On Sunday another double header will be staged, with the Huron meeting the 37th Division at 3:15 o'clock and Shanghai and the 38th Division following for the second game.

It is expected that Manager Gallop will give a new schedule ready for publication tomorrow, covering every day of next week, with the Huron, the Buffalo and the two Destroyer teams listed. This will be possible now since the Destroyers and the battleships are scheduled to remain in port until after the Fourth.

Labor Shortage Big Problem In Hawaii, Says Judge Franklin

Terming the labor shortage as the most serious problem confronting the Hawaiian Islands today, Judge C. S. Franklin, Shanghai attorney and formerly on the Federal bench at Honolulu, delivered an interesting address on America's Mid-Pacific Islands before the Shanghai Rotary Club at the regular weekly tiffin meeting at the Union Club yesterday.

"This shortage," Judge Franklin said, "is the result of two causes. In the first place, there is an actual scarcity of laborers. In the second place, labor there won't work. To understand the situation it must be borne in mind that labor in the islands may roughly be said to consist of Chinese, Japanese and native Hawaiians.

"Before annexation to the United States in 1900 the great bulk of the plantation labor was Chinese. With annexation came the Chinese Exclusion Act which prevented the coming of fresh labor from this country. Those who were there continued to work on. Many accumulated what would be a competency in their native land and returned to China, others accumulated sufficient capital to engage in less strenuous pursuits, and now, after the lapse of twenty years, the majority of the original Chinese laborers have either passed on to the Great Beyond or are too old to do the hard work of the planting and cultivating of cane.

"The second generation of Chinese, the sons and daughters of the original laborers, growing up under more favorable conditions than did their parents, have seized the opportunities for education to which their American citizenship entitled them, and are now filling responsible positions in the community as merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, bankers and professional men, and so in a few years the Chinese available for plantation labor will be negligible.

JAPANESE TACTICS

"Since the embargo on Chinese labor in 1900 the islands just across the China Sea from us have been the chief source of Hawaii's labor supply, and previous to 1915 and 1916 this supply was in every sense adequate. The labor was well paid, well treated and well satisfied. In addition to the regular pay the laborers were given a bonus computed on a sliding scale with the price of sugar. This ideal situation was interrupted by the abnormal conditions which came with the war. The price of sugar soared and with it the bonus. As a result the common laborer in the field received more per month than did the teachers in the schools or men of responsibility in stores and banks.

"This enabled many Japanese to save sufficient money for them to return to Japan and spend the balance of their days in plenty, and a great many have done so, while others have left Hawaii because of the rumblings of Anti-Japanese propaganda along the Western Coast of the United States. The departure of the Japanese from Hawaii is not as serious a matter yet as the refusal of the Japanese to work for a normal wage, a position dictated to them by their labor unions. This condition, however, is not peculiar to Hawaii alone. It is the natural result of the wage reduction throughout the world, and capital in the Hawaiian Islands is suffering no more than is capital in Kobe or Yokohama or any other industrial center of the Japanese Empire. The fact remains, however, that, either apparent or real, there is a shortage of Japanese labor on the sugar plantations of Hawaii.

"In characterising a moment or two ago the labor of Hawaii I mentioned the native Hawaiian. This is really inaccurate but was done for the purpose of answering a very natural query that would be in the minds of all of you who are not familiar with conditions in Hawaii. In the first place there are only 22,000 thousand full blooded Hawaiians in the whole territory, and like the American Indian they are fast giving way before the diseases of civilisation, and also like the American Indian in the great majority of instances they are temperamentally unfit for plantation labor. I doubt very seriously if there are 500 hundred Hawaiians engaged in the cultivation of cane in the whole territory.

SUGAR DISASTROUS

"The immediate result of this labor shortage has been more disastrous than the decline in the price of sugar. With a plenteous labor supply the Hawaiian plantations can pay dividends with the price of sugar where it is today. As it is there are only a half dozen paying any dividends at all and these dividends are one-half or one-quarter of normal. The more far-reaching result is that fields which should be planted this year to be cut two years hence are lying idle while the cane that matures this year and next is being harvested poorly or not at all, so you can get some idea of the seriousness of the situation. Sugar is the life of the territory and anything that affects this controlling industry indirectly affects every inhabitant regardless of his avocation.

"Naturally the sugar planters are making every effort to remedy conditions. Since 1916 laborers from the Philippines have been brought in by the hundreds and absolute ruin has been averted. These laborers, however, have not been found to be absolutely satisfactory. They are not as dependable, I am told, as the Oriental laborers. Certain it is that the planters have made strenuous efforts to bring in labor from other lands.

"In May of last year a Commission was appointed and left for Washington for the purpose of persuading Congress to alleviate conditions. It was hoped that some scheme could be found whereby Chinese labor might come to Hawaii without the further privilege of going on to the mainland. This scheme was bitterly fought by the labor unions in the States. Why, I do not know, for it is a known fact that white labor, unaccustomed to tropical heat, cannot stand up under cane field labor. In spite of this opposition, however, the Commission in Washington was greatly encouraged but were advised to await the outcome of the World Conference before pressing the matter. Recently this Commission has gone back to Washington to renew its efforts. It is my personal opinion, however, that Congress will not permit the introduction of Chinese labor, but that some provision will be made for the introduction of labor from Europe or from the West Indies. One thing is sure that so substantial an industry will not be allowed to perish, and I contemplate the future of Hawaii with great confidence."

Reports Tell Of Activities Of International Institute

Dr. Gilbert Reid, founder and directing force of The International Institute of China, has just published the 48th and 49th semi-annual reports of the activities of the institution covering the period April 15, 1921—April 15, 1922.

In these reports, which are issued in attractive pamphlet form, the history of the International Institute is given in outline together with the sanction that was extended by the former Imperial Board of Foreign Affairs at Peking in 1897 when the Institute was being founded, the later Imperial sanction in 1909 endorsing work accomplished and a third sanction by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of China, issued in 1914.

The lists of officials and dignitaries serving with and giving support to the Institute are published and articles of the incorporation of the Institute are given textually setting forth its aims, first of which is. . ."To promote welfare of China and the Chinese people," and second . . . "To promote harmony betwen the people of China and those of other nationalities, and between the adherents of the Christian religion and those of other faiths."

In opening his two reports Doctor Reid expresses the belief that . . . "with plans reorganised and marks of approval from many sides, with the experience of nearly four decades in China to help determine the duty of the future, with rules and regulations, property and responsibilities duly defined and legally safeguarded by incorporation in the State of Delaware (taking the place of registry in the British Colony of Hongkong), the Director-in-Chief regards the present time as a turning in the up-hill road that leads, he hopes, to higher heights where rests the sunlight with fewer shadows."

The reports, issued after Doctor Reid's return to China after a long absence, relate both to his experiences in the homeland and those in China. He refers to the incorporation in Delaware saying, "we may take courage by having the International Institute again placed on a legal basis so that every one who has contributed to the work of the Institute may be assured that the funds will not be diverted to other schemes."

Publication of his two latest books in America, "China, Captive or Free," by Dodd, Mead & Co., and "A Christian's Appreciation of Other Faiths" by The Open Court Publishing Company of Chicago and London is told of in the reports together with much favorable comment on the two works by critics. Doctor Reid's son, Mr. John Gilbert Reid, graduated from Hamilton College in June and since has come to China with Mrs. Reid and has assumed the post of Secretary of the Institute.

Continuing, Doctor Reid outlines the activities that have engaged his attention since his return to China after nearly four years absence and he expresses the fullest optimism in connection with the future outlook of the work to which he is giving his life.

The reports contain complete financial statements dealing with the Institute's work.

BUSCH, BREWER, AND LASKER, SHIP CHIEF, QUARREL

Engage In Wordy Battle Over Liquor On Liners

(China Press Service)

St. Louis, June 14.—August A Busch of Anheuser-Busch has sent a letter to President Harding, after his voyage to Europe aboard the George Washington, regarding the sale of liquor on American ships. He told of the bar room being wide open and said that the United States Government was violating its own laws.

He declared that the United States government had set an example of "hypocrisy unparalleled in the history of the Republic."

Washington, June 14.—Chairman Lasker, of the United States Shipping Board, formally replying to Busch's charges, declared:

"Neither the Volstead Act nor the Eighteenth Amendment applies to American ships outside the three mile limit. The Shipping Board approved the custom of serving drinks at sea both from the standpoint of legal right and the life and security of our national merchant marine.

"I believe you are thoroughly selfish, and that you are acting in the hope of creating a public revolt against prohibition, utterly regardless of how you might hurt the American merchant marine to benefit your breweries.

"It is notorious that Adolphus Busch who founded your brewery was possibly the Kaiser's closest friend in America, and that you for many years have maintained a castle in Germany. Your fulminations in any event will not displease your German friends whose greatest hope of a restored German merchant marine lies in a hurt to America's new born merchant marine."

St. Louis, June 14.—It was announced that Busch will reply to Lasker, denying that Adolphus Busch, his father and founder of the great breweries was "possibly the Kaiser's closest friend in America," voicing a "protest that the United States government buys German beer to sell it on ships and does not permit American beer to be made."

Washington, June 14.—The opinion of Acting Attorney W. L. Friers, given on December 1920, was that he believed that the national prohibition law applies to American ships whether in American waters or on the high seas.

A western congressman who declined to permit the use of his name said that he was about to offer an amendment to the Ship Subsidy Bill providing that no federal appropriation be made for steamship lines where liquor was sold without special authority from Congress.

Germany Again 'Sees Bankruptcy'

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 14.—A manifesto, inspired by Herr Hugo Stinnes, has been published, headed "Germany's Six Points."

It declares that Germany will become bankrupt and unable to pay reparations unless Duisburg, Buesseldore, Ruhrort, the left bank of the Rhine and the Saar Basin are evacuated, the 26 per cent levy on exports and other restrictions to trade abolished and the frontiers of Upper Silesia restored.

Anti-Dumping Is Acute Issue Again

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 14.—The question of anti-dumping legislation is likely to arise in an acute form in the near future when the House of commons will be asked to endorse the Cabinet's decision enforcing the anti-dumping provision of the Safeguarding of Industries Act in the case of fabric gloves.

The fact that the decision was only secured by a small majority in the Cabinet after five months' discussion foreshadows a keen debate on protection between the two wings of the Coalition.

CORNERSTONE LAID

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 14.—Lord Haldane at Nottingham today laid the foundation stone of the new East Midland University. He announced that an anonymous donation of £100,000 had been received towards endowment of the University.

Putting The "Kick" Into The Montmartre

Just a quiet little night in Montmartre—the real Montmartre, if you please, rather than the variety to which the tourist is accustomed.

The Pere Lopis sitting at the table smoking his pipe. His three daughters, his two sons and his old wife going about the after-supper chores. Then Mimi, his oldest daughter, enters. She is excited, is Mimi.

"I have just seen Pierre," she says. "He has an American tourist with him—rich and handsome. They are looking for sights in Montmartre, and all that they see is so stupid. It is too sad."

"Yes," agrees the Pere Louis. "But what are we to do. We are quiet people." He returns to his pipe.

MAKING IT INTERESTING

"But no," insists Mimi, "it is wrong. Particularly when they are rich, and are so willing to pay for excitement."

She thinks for a moment, then gives a pirouette of triumph. "Ah, I have it. We will give him some excitement. And, perhaps, who knows?—we shall get some of his money. Mamma, papa, girls. Quick. Take off those aprons!"

In a moment her sisters are converted into exotic flowers of Parisian night life. Her dear mamma becomes an evil looking old bag. Pere Louis is converted into a sodden absinthe wreck. The brothers are unmistakable Apaches. The table lamp gives way to candles, furniture is tossed about, the quiet household becomes a disreputable hovel, fit for any lurid drama of the Montmartre underworld.

Then Pierre brings in the American. He is a nice, clean-cut collar ad American, and he surveys the scene with delight. This is Montmartre, just as he has read of it. Here are Apaches, the pretty girls, the hardened old frequenters. Here anything might happen.

AMERICAN TO THE RESCUE

And something does. The American sees that Mimi is unhappy. He knows that this must be the case because no magazine cover girl like Mimi could stay around such a vile resort without being unhappy. He asks her to come away with him, far from the squalor and crime of the wicked Montmartre. And she is willing. There is nothing so dear in Mimi's memory as Normandy, where she lived before she came to the cruel Paris—and to Montmartre. But, hold! A dread thought. There is her Dandy. He is one bad homme and Mimi doesn't want to make him mad. But the American is persistent. He will take care of her. He promises much. And, finally, Mimi agrees.

The two start out. Then—the Dandy enters. You recognise him as Mimi's older brother, converted into an Apache by a red handkerchief around his neck, but the American doesn't. Mimi shrinks back. He grasps her by the wrists and tosses her to one side. But will the American permit this? Not for a moment. He isn't that sort of an American.

"Touch that girl again," he says, "and I'll break every bone in your body!"

The Dandy smiles contemptuously.

"She can pass if she wants," he says.

Mimi is torn between fear and hope. And she is also swayed by the strange love which she has for the Dandy. She starts to go, then stops, then starts again. The Dandy watches her impassively until she sinks at his knees. Then he throws her roughly away.

A MURDER AND GENDARMES

At this point the old absinthe wreck—Pere Louis—intervenes. He steps to the girl's protection. "You keep out of this!" commands the Dandy; then, in a sudden burst of rage, drives a knife into the old man's body. He stabs him repeatedly, brutally, again and again, until the old man falls to the floor.

But the American is ready. Out comes a revolver and a police whistle which Pierre, the guide, has given him. Two gendarmes rush in and place the Dandy under arrest.

Now, it is Mimi's turn to regret. Standing beside the body of the slain Pere Louis, she beseeches the American to have the gendarmes release her lover, the Dandy. He is more to her than Normandy, more than father and mother, more than everything. The American finally grudingly tells the gendarmes to let the Dandy go.

"Let him go?" say the gendarmes. "We can't do that now. He must go to prison."

But Mimi is desperate.

"They only want money," she tells the American. "And I have none. None!" Then a thought comes to her. "But you Americans are all rich. You can save him. Save him for me, for God's sake."

ALL HIS FAULT

It is a strange situation. But, the American reflects, it never could have arisen except for his interference in Mimi's affair. So in the end, instead of saving Mimi from a life of viciousness he hands over a roll of bills and saves her lover from a life in prison.

The gendarmes take the bills release the Dandy, and go out. The American follows. Mimi weeps silently. Then——

The gendarmes come in by another entrance.

"Pretty good night's work," they say, handing Mimi the American's roll of bills.

"He was easy," says Mimi, and distributes the money among her relatives, including the Pere Louis, who has miraculously returned to life. "Well," she says, finally, "the American had his excitement, and we have his money. So everybody should be happy."

And the curtain goes down.

IT'S ELSIE JANIS' IDEA

Curtain? Oh, to be sure. This version of life in Montmartre constitutes one of the most applauded scenes from this year's Elsie Janis show, which just closed an engagement at the Shubert. Miss Janis, of course, is Mimi. Such approval has been shown of the "bit" that it is to be taken out of the show next year and given an independent run in vaudeville.

Miss Janis wrote it, she being her own author, producer, composer, lyricist, manager, and star this year as always.

"No," she will tell you, "I didn't have any particular place in mind when I wrote it. It was simply the only way I could reconcile life in Montmartre as I saw it and as most other tourists tell me they saw it. Yes, it's made an awful hit. I'll have to write something else, of course, after we put it in vaudeville. What? Well, perhaps the difference between the Frenchman's conception of prohibition as it actually exists."

Have you ever, when walking along the street, been suddenly struck with the fact that you are feeling fine and the world seems just about right? No particular reason has popped into your mind, but something has given you a few minutes of real pleasure. When you get so much satisfaction without any effect on your part, perhaps if you invest $12.00 in an I. S. S. PREMIUM BOND, these precious interwals, when your soul is soaring in the heights, would come more often.

Hankow Market

The British Chamber of Commerce at Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, June 7:

FINANCE

Bar silver on London opened on June 1 at 36½ ready and forward, and dropped steadily to 35¼ ready and 35⅛ forward. The New York-London cross rate after being steady for the past two weeks at 4.45, rose rapidly to 4.50½. Sterling T.T. dropped from 3s. 7d. on June 1 to 3s. 5⅛d. and business was done at from 3s. 8⅛d. down to 3s. 6½d., there being no sellers over this latter rate until the afternoon of the 7th, when 3s. 7d. could be obtained. 4 m-s. Credits opened firm with no buyers under 3s. 9¼d. The rate was dropped to 3s. 7¾d. without bringing out any bills. On June 7 however the market firmed up and a certain amount of business was placed at 3s. 8⅛d., with no buyers at that rate at the close. T.T. on Shanghai has been firm all the week and a large business was done with the rate as high as 98, at which quotation the market closed firm. Chinese market rates: Shanghai Taels 98. Local currency: Dollars 70.425. Native interest: 16 percent per annum.

EXPORTS

During the week under review a few purchases of wood oil were reported though the American market for this commodity is dull and buyers in Europe are holding off. The position for beans is unchanged, home prices being still much below the parity of values here. Shanghai limits for cotton are still below current values on this market.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods:—The market still remains dull with prices on the weak side. Clearances are poor.

Yarn:—There was a fair inquiry in the market for forward delivery at prices about Tls. 5 per bale under Shanghai level.

June 15, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ¼d. in London yesterday.

The New York price is unchanged, and the London-New York cross rate advanced to 447⅜.

The official Sterling rate here this morning was raised to 3-7, the Gold Dollar rate to 80, the Yen rate dropped to 60, and the other rates changed in proportion.

Our market was steady throughout the morning, business being done at about the same level as yesterday.

There were sellers of Sterling at 3-7⅛ for all deliveries up to August, and of Gold Dollars at 80¼.

There were also occasional buyers of August Sterling at 3-7⅛.

In the afternoon, rates eased off, speculators being buyers, and the market closed with no sellers of Sterling at better than 3s. 7d. for June-July, and 3s. 6 11d. for August. There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at 80¼ for June 80⅜ July, and 80 August.

There was some demand for Francs today, the Franc rate having improved, and business in Franc T.T. was done at 915, although there were probably buyers at a fraction under this rate.

China bought silver in London yesterday, and the market there as well as in New York, is reported steady.

Freight Market

In their fortnightly report on the freight market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company state:

There is no change to report in the condition of our export trade to Europe or America since last writing and it would be hopeless to try and foretell when things are likely to improve.

To United States via Pacific:—The tea-season has opened and it is anticipated that small parcels will shortly be going forward, otherwise the market is as dead as ever except for a little silk moving by the mail lines.

Coastwise:—This market has been very quiet all round during the past fortnight and there is nothing much doing in any direction.

Coal Market

In their report on the coal market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows:

Japan Coal:—Since writing a fortnight ago quite a fair amount of new business has been done as a result of the stoppage of supplies from Chinwangtao—the consequence is that stocks at Japan shipping ports are decreasing and prices are firm.

Fushun Coal:—Nothing fresh to report.

Fuchung Anthracite:—Market quiet, no change.

Kaiping Coal:—No coal has been landed during the last two weeks and although the political situation is stated to have improved it is anticipated that arrivals in the near future will be on a very small scale.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending Wednesday:

Exchange:—The London price of silver has remained steady throughout the week, today's quotation of 35⅞d. ready and forward shows an advance of ⅝d. and ¾d. respectively since this day last week. The market locally has ruled firm, rates throughout shewing an upward tendency. Business in regard to imports and exports has only been on a very limited scale. Local gold dealers have taken a strong view of the market and have been good sellers of sterling, especially today, when it became known that an appreciable fall in the New York-London rate had taken place.

The market closes firm, sterling being offered freely at 3s. 7⅛d. this month and next and Gold Dollars at 80¼.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Syced and Bar Silver Tls. 26,153,000, an increase of Tls. 1,722,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $32,240,000, an increase of $1,010,000.

Estimated value Tls. 49,365,000 as against Tls. 54,377,000 held at this time last year.

World Banking

(New York Times)

THE Genoa economic conference failed because Russian politics obscured economics. It is now strangely said that "changed conditions" are unpropitious for the meeting of the central bankers. The conditions have changed only by not changing. America may yet raise a standard of non-political banking to which all will rally who agree with us. The need is great. An American banker cabled to the United States Chamber of Commerce that most of the world's central banks "present varying degrees of insolvency." That is so because of the close connection between Governments and even the rest of the banks. So long as commercial banking is subordinated to fiscal banking the world's financial sickness will continue. The bad state of Government finance is the source of the threatened instability of banks. We cannot depart from our banking principles any more than we could palter with Bolshevism. We must pursue the path from which other world bankers have wandered, both for self-protection and for maintaining our ability to serve our foreign friends. We cannot co-operate with banks that are under the necessity of financing Government deficits with currency issues. We see our duty to use our excess gold in a world interest, but it is a higher duty not to waste it.

We are in the fourth year of peace, but neither Governments nor banks in Europe have altered their war methods. War expenses are still a chief cause of unbalanced budgets. One or two Governments have started on the path which their bankers as well as ours know they must follow. Space would fail to recite the delusions in banking which have been current. Politicians must minister to economic illiteracy, but no free banker will do so. Politicians are responsible for the doubling of the world's national debts since the war, and for the tripling of currency issues in the same period. If the world bankers' conference were to condone these financial misdeeds it would be a worse failure than the Genoa conference.

There have been four economic conferences. All were agreed, but their conclusions have not been put in practice. Our foreign friends must make up their minds that we can no more change our position on banking than on Russia. We sympathise with their troubles, we understand their difficulties, but we cannot adopt their ways. Overseas Governments must practice what overseas bankers and economists advise before we can co-operate with them as we desire.

ECONOMY OF NATURE!

OVERHEARD

In the Summer House:

"The man I marry," said the serious girl to him, "must be both brave and brainy."

"I think I'm both brave and brainy," said he with confidence.

"I know you're brave," she answered, "because you saved my life when our boat upset the other day. But that wasn't brainy, was it?"

"It certainly was," he said; and there was a gleam of triumph in his eye. "You see, I upset the boat."

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

Josephine was visiting a farm for the first time. One day she saw a peacock. After gazing at it in admiration, she ran into the house calling "Oh, Mr. Jones, there's one of your chickens in full bloom!"

WHAT'S IN A NAME

The little Japanese passport officer was asking the usual sort of questions. At last a typical Englishman presented himself.

"And what is your name?"

"Smith."

So! And your first name?

"Arbuckle."

"Ah! American! Tso!"

Collapse of Smith.

HIS MISTRESS

I have a mistress, for perfections rare
In every eye, but in my thoughts most fair.
Like tapers on the altar shine her eyes;
Her breath is the perfume of sacrifice;
And wheresoe'er my fancy would begin,
Still her perfection lets religion in.
We sit and talk, and kiss away the hours
As chastely as the morning dews kiss flowers.
I touch her, like my beads, with devout care,
And come unto my courtship as my prayer.

—Thomas Randolph (1605)

PAT SCORES

Pat was seated in a train beside a pompous individual who was accompanied by a dog.

"Foine dog ye have; phwat kind is it?"

"A cross between an Irishman and an ape."

"Sure an' it's releated to both of us."

THE FUNNY SIDE OF POLITICS

During an election, a colonel who was standing for a constituency invited his sergeant, who had a reputation for rough and ready eloquence, to address one of his meetings.

Concluding his speech, the sergeant said: "My fellow-citizens, vote for my colonel! Vote for my colonel, and he will lead you, as he led us, like sheep to the slaughter!"

At an electioneering meeting held in a village schoolroom, the chairman, rising gravely from his seat, opened with:

"Ladies and gentlemen, this is a most momentous campaign. There are grave issues to be discussed. Later we will hear, I hope, these great questions from our best speakers, but for the present we will listen quietly to our candidate."

They were rival candidates, and the one said to the other: "You haven't a chance to win; it's a donkey to a strawberry against you."

"Indeed," the other replied, "that doesn't sound very encouraging but perhaps you wouldn't mind apologising for the liberty you've taken in calling me a strawberry."

Lenin---Puzzle Of Europe

BY JAMES C. YOUNG

The outstanding personality of the Genoa conference is that of a man who has not attended a single session of the nation's representatives gathered there, but who from a distance of 3,000 miles has done more than any one man to shape their discussions—Nikolai Lenin. This shadowy figure, hidden in the seclusion of a farm near Moscow, but hourly linked with Genoa by the magic of the radio, has blocked so many lines of approach to international settlements that almost every question has seemed to begin and end with what Lenin had to say. Operated on in the midst of this world gathering, he was said to have directed the steps of the Soviet spokesmen even on the day he faced the surgeons. Certainly no other man emerging from the welter of the great war has had so conspicuous a part in affecting the immediate future of Europe. Although his name has become one of the most commonly used in the world today, the man himself has remained a vague, unknown factor in the scales of European destiny. At first it seemed that he merely was an arch revolutionist, then he was called an idealist, with impracticable and impossible plans for adjusting the world's balance. To many he has appeared as an ogre, risen from the ruins of Russia, and others have seen in him the embodiment of a new order. But the man himself has remained an enigma.

Few Americans have had so good an opportunity to observe Lenin, his works and his ways, as ex-Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana, one of the directing heads of the American Relief Administration. He has made two trips to Russia, leaving Moscow early in April for a hurried journey preparatory to winding up the affairs of the Administration in Russia.

"What sort of a man is Lenin?" he was asked.

"That all depends on the point of view," replied Governor Goodrich. "Perhaps I may best sum up the conception of him in Russia by saying practically all shades of opinion agree that he is honest. The Communist Party, numbering about 500,000 and dominating more than 100,000,000 Russians, sees in him a statesman of the first rank. His opponents—and there are many of them—concede that he is earnestly striving for the best solution of Russia's difficulties, according to his standards. If you were to ask the first man you met in the streets of Moscow what he thought about Lenin his answer would be something like this: 'Well, we know what to expect from him. If he should be unseated, who would take his place? We probably would get somebody who was not half so able and who might introduce a wholly different plan of government, which would put us in a worse condition than we are now.'

"Then Lenin might be called the strong man of Russia," it was suggested to the Governor.

"Yes, I suppose so," he replied. "There is nobody else on the political horizon who approaches him. George Tchitcherin, head of the Soviet delegation to Genoa, probably is the next man up, so far as ability and influence are concerned, but the two work well together, and there are no signs of Tchitcherin aspiring to Lenin's place."

LENIN MAN OF OPPORTUNITY

"Does that mean the Russian Government is an expression of Lenin's personal will?" Governor Goodrich was asked.

"Lenin undoubtedly runs things," was the reply, "but I doubt there is any widespread feeling in Russia that he is an autocrat. Power has fallen upon his shoulders because he seems to have been the man best able to bear it of those who figured in the new order of things. Lenin is the accepted head of the Communist Party. That certainly cannot be construed as the whole Russian people, but it is the only political agency now functioning. It is a contradition that Russia, with so much talk about world communism, should have a governmental organisation in which the highest representatives, corresponding to our Senators, are six degrees removed from the principle of the ballot. Beginning with the local peasant or trade Soviet, there are a half dozen electoral groups between the people and their highest council. Each one of these groups elects to the other. Lenin's policies have been approved by the upper Communist body, and that approval has stood for the whole people, so that he has at least a show of popular support for his actions."

The Governor was asked about reports that Trotzky represented what recently has been called the military clique in Russia, and that he was ambitious to succeed Lenin.

"Trotzky undoubtedly is in favor with the military element," said the Governor, "which is natural for a man in his position who has successfully waged a half dozen wars. But I saw no evidences which would support the belief that Trotzky had any differences with his superior. I met and talked to him several times, and he gave me the impression of a man who would make an excellent cavalry leader. He has a way about him that indicates force and determination and has performed notable things in the upbuilding of an army. Whether he is a great military leader I am not able to judge. There were no indications in Moscow of anything but the best feeling among leaders of the Soviet Government."

"How did Lenin impress you?"

"Well, he was a sick man when I saw him last," replied the Governor. "He had the sallow look of a man suffering from reduced vitality, and a nervous, abstracted manner which showed that he was working on reserve energy. He is a little man, with a straight, penetrating eye, who says little and has tried to avoid public intercourse so far as possible, especially in the last year. There was much talk in Moscow about his illness, which I understood to be largely the result of wounds at the hands of an attempted assassion. Most of his time lately has been spent on a farm not far from the capital, where he is in retirement from everybody. The people of Moscow, and even the leading officials of their Government, probably know as little about his movements as we in New York."

The gathering troubles of Russia over the depreciated currency were called to Governor Goodrich's attention as a possible cause of early trouble for the Government. Now that the Soviet authorities have announced an end of the gold ruble as a basis of valuation, and the substitution of some plan whereby the worth of all services will be measured in goods, paper rubles literally are selling by the ton. In any other country such a step would mean the impoverishment of a nation over night, but in Russia the basis of common exchange, the paper ruble, has fallen so low that her financial outlook practically is a blank.

"A large part of the trading in Russia has been carried on for some time by means of barter," said Governor Goodrich. "What the outcome of the enormous ruble issues is to be only a prophet could tell. But it is an interesting reflection that under the rate recently quoted for paper rubles all of those in existence could be taken up for about $25,000,000 gold. This would mean, of course, the discrediting of Soviet money, but it already has reached such a low stage that official admission of inability to make good would mean little, because the Soviet money is worthless outside of Russia anyway, and there could be no international complications. The Russians themselves already have suffered the loss in valuation, so that if all of the paper rubles were wiped off the state the actual loss even within the borders of Russia would be only $25,000,000 gold."

The change of Lenin's policy in permitting the resumption of trade and in prospective concessions abroad, intended to reopen international relations, apparently have made no unfavorable impression on the Russian mind, in the opinion of Governor Goodrich.

"The Russian peasant, who represents the real political mass, is fundamentally interested in only one thing, and that is his land," said the Governor. "He knows that Lenin, at least the party for which Lenin stands, gave him his land, and he is likely to passively grant it his support so long as he keeps the land. This yearning for land is ages old in Russia, where the peasant for centuries worked on the land of others, and slowly comprehended that he never could be independent until he had his own land. Now that he has it, I cannot conceive of anything that will shake him from it, and there is no prospect of his ever turning against the leaders who put this land in his hands. It is pretty safe to assume that Lenin's power rests on as solid a foundation as that of any relative European Government."

"Does the average Russian feel strongly about the extension of a Communistic government to other countries?" Governor Goodrich was asked. "Is it true that the Russians believe themselves called upon to undertake a kind of crusade in behalf of the proletariat elsewhere?"

"I was present at a political gathering in a big Moscow theater that would just answer your question," said the Governor. "There was some talk about the Third International and what Russia was called upon to do for the proletariat of other countries. I gathered from my interpreter that one of the speakers thought this should be a good deal, but there was no special enthusiasm until a young Russian got up and said: 'Why talk about other countries and what we should do for them? What have they done for us? I am not an internationalist; the Third International means nothing to me. I am a Russian and stand for Russia.'

"The cheering made the theater ring," continued the Governor. "The audience stood up, waving its hands and throwing its hats just as a crowd might do here. That spirit is typical of Russia today. I found the people intensely nationalistic and anxious for the time when Russia would again take her place as a commanding nation. The idea of a big family group of all peoples seems to have been lost. Perhaps it never was the idea of the mass but just the theory of their leaders."

The contention of Soviet representatives at Genoa that all rights conceded for foreign development must be on the principle of a lease from the Government, barring complete ownership, was suggested to Governor Goodrich as indicating that Lenin had abandoned few of his fundamental ideas.

LENIN'S RETREAT AT AN END

"That is just about the size of it," the Governor said. "He has made a kind of strategic retreat from the advanced positions taken up after the revolution, and is now resting upon his reserve lines. Leaders in Russia do not believe that he will recede much further, if at all, and there is an opinion that Lenin has gained more than he lost, strengthening the Soviet for a new trial of whatever plans it may have. Lenin's policy has had much of opportunism in it, and the opportunity just now seems to be for a fair trade with his European neighbors, which he is anxious to make."

"How did Russia appear, compared with other civilised nations?" the Governor was asked. "Was there much lawlessness, and how did the people seem to be getting on in their home life?"

"I did not see very much difference between Russia and any other place," he answered, "if we discount the wretchedness caused by disorganisation of all activities, and famine conditions over a broad area. I felt just as safe in Russia as in the United States. The people are going about their ordinary affairs, and Soviet rule does not seem to have had any effect on everyday existence except in an economic way. The worst of the suffering has passed and we are in sight of the time when it may be said that Russia has a chance to recuperate."

The Governor was asked what appeared to be the one outstanding need before this recovery could begin.

"Better organisation is the first essential," he said. "Lenin is faced with a stupendous task in this direction. Any country which had been through half the troubles of Russia would be in a topsy-turvy condition, and Russia is a good deal worse. Her railroads and industries need uncounted tons of materials of all kinds and years will be required to reconstruct her basic industries. Once production is started on anything like a normal scale Russia can, of course, begin to supply her own needs, although the country never has been an industrial nation. It will take a long time to reach the point of 1914.

"But the big need is proper methods and organisation. Everything else is dependent upon that. Just to show what I mean let me tell you about the east side garment workers who have gone over to Moscow and set up factories. These men are doing well. Despite all the difficulties of getting materials, with not a single textile plant running in Russia, they somehow manage to find goods and convert them into garments which bring fabulous prices. Just imagine what they could do if given the equipment of a regulation plant here—sewing machines, linings, thread, woolens to pick from. Any one of these things is at a premium in Russia, worth millions and millions of rubles, but the east side garment makers transplanted to Moscow are doing business and will have the nucleus of a bustling industry by the time that the country gets back to something like its normal state. They are not waiting for Lenin or anybody else to perform the miracle, but are going about it themselves and that is just the spirit that means success anywhere."

The Sun, Moon and Earth—A Heating Problem

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"If the heat from the sun constantly diminishes as we ascend, and is virtually imperceptible, even at easily attained altitudes, why do astronomers speak of the necessarily great heat on the surface of the moon when exposed for 600 hours to the sunshine? Is not heat the result of arrested motion?—W. P. R., Medina, Ohio."

Yes, heat does result from arrested motion, or rather from transformed motion. And that is the very reason why astronomers speak of the surface of the moon becoming heated by the continuous impact, during about a fortnight at a time, of the rays of the unclouded sun.

Heat is not sent from the sun as heat. If it were, the sun's rays would be cooling off during all their long journey of 93,000,000 miles before reaching the earth, or the moon. What the sun sends out on all sides is energy in the form of vibrations supposed to occur in the mysterious and suppositions medium named the ether. But those are not heat vibrations, although they can produce heat vibrations in material substances which they encounter.

However wrong physicists may be in their speculations about the manner in which the sun's radiations are conveyed, at any rate it may be taken as certain that those radiations are not in the form of heat while they are in transit through empty space.

The fact to which you refer—that as we rise into rarer air the heating effect of the sun's rays seems to diminish—is only an evidence that the rays require the presence of material substances in order to manifest their power to produce heat. The denser the air the greater the quantity of radiation arrested and transformed into heat vibrations. The cold experienced by aviators and mountain climbers is due in part to the absence of heated air such as is found near the earth's surface, but more to the rapid escape of whatever heat as is developed by the sun's rays touching their bodies and their surroundings.

If you are on a lofty mountain like Mont Blanc, on a cloudless day, although you stand on a mass of compact snow and ice it may be hundreds of feet deep and which remains practically undiminished in quantity all the year around, while the air about you feels very chill, especially if a breeze is blowing, yet your bare hand held out in the sunshine will quickly be sunburned, with a beginning of blistering. With a pocket lens you can in a minute prove to your entire satisfaction that the sun's rays have lost no mite of their kindling power by bringing them to a burning focus.

The sunbeams falling on the moon heat its surface, but the heat escapes rapidly because there is practically no air at all to retain it. Acting as a heat-imprisoning blanket is one of the most important functions of an atmosphere surrounding a planet, like the earth that has sufficient gravitative power to retain an airy envelope.

The sunshine absorbed by the earth's surface is radiated back into the lower layers of the atmosphere with its vibration period so reduced that it falls out of the visible spectrum, and becomes "obscure heat." Now, it is a property of atmospheric air to absorb very readily obscure radiation of this kind, instead of allowing it to pass through as it allows the visible radiation from the sun to pass.

The result is that the lower layers of the earth's atmosphere become warmed, and they retain the obscure heat that would escape from the earth if there were no atmosphere—as there is none on the moon. The earth without an atmosphere would continue to be heated by the sunshine, just as the moon is heated, but, like the moon also, it would allow the heat to escape almost as fast as it was received.

We may say that the moon is "sunburned" like the skin of a mountain climber, but yet, like him, it shivers with cold wherever the solar rays do not reach, and falls to a glacial temperature when it turns its face from the sun in its long nights.

We never think enough of the wonderful modifying effects of the atmosphere. We can't see it and so we don't talk about it except when a wind blows—and then we think only of the most trivial of its qualities. Even the fact that it is "the breath of life" for us is of less cosmical importance than the part that it plays, and has played for ages, in shaping the earth's surface features and distributing the sun's energies over the globe.

Not a river would flow if there were no air: not a river would even exist. No drop of rain would ever fall. On the daylight side the earth would scorch and on the night side freeze, if it were not for the beneficent interference of the atmosphere.

The seasons would lose their distinctions. Summer would be hardly less chill than Winter, and the blessed gradations of Spring and Autumn would disappear. No April violets, no June roses, no Autumn goldenrods, no November Indian Summer—think of poor old Mars, who seems to be approaching that condition, with his atmosphere becoming so thin, so scanty, so chill.

AGE is no indication of eye condition. Many aged people do not need to wear glasses, whereas many children need them at an early age.
Sometimes children, otherwise bright and intelligent, are backward in school on account of defective eyesight which is entirely unsuspected.
Let us test the eyes of your children. Be sure that you know whether or not their eyes are all right.

A JOINT AND POINT JINGLE

When you're feeling ill at ease,
And there's not a breath of breeze,
And the heat has put your temper out of joint,
Phone for a friend or two
And a car to call for you——
Tell the Chauffeur "Point the flivver towards THE POINT."

When your appetite is whet
And you're sick of what you get,
And you want a juicy steak or chop or joint,
You can feed anticipation
With a wild imagination,
But you won't be disap*point*ed at THE POINT

If at times you sit in dreams
Of Murray's or Maxim's
And the marvels that they serve at such a Joint,
There's no need to fume and fret
Because here you cannot get——
Such a dinner for we serve 'em at THE POINT

For an after dinner spree,
Or an all-night jamboree,
Read the ads and then select most any Joint,
But if you wish that every guest
Shall have nothing but the best
Take a tip and plan your dinners at THE POINT

There's many kind of a joint but only one

Judge Orders Musician To Play Jazz Music

SINCE she left the concert stage her husband hasn't brought home enough money to even keep her boots polished, Mme. Estelle Gray Thevinne told a San Francisco judge when she appeared to plead for a divorce from her spouse. Her husband declared that not enough people care for classical music to make possible his supporting a wife. "Learn to play jazz," commanded Judge E. P. Morgan, "and you can earn ten dollars a night in cabarets." The case was dismissed.

Australians To Honor Ross Smith

(Reuter's Service)

Adelaide, June 14.—The body of Sir Ross Smith was landed here today. The coffin was covered with the Australian flag. There were impressive ceremonies and the flags on all ships were at half-mast.

Thousands subsequently filed through the Cathedral to view the catafalque where Sir Ross Smith will lie in state until the funeral tomorrow.

Austrian Crown Shows Big Gain

(Reuter's Service)

Vienna, June 14.—The crown jumped 25 percent before the Bourse opened today, the pound sterling being quoted at 73,000 as compared with 100,000 yesterday, as a result of steps taken to form a new Austrian note bank following a conference between representatives of the Government, Rothschild's and the Austrian Banks.

The newspapers are sanguine that the new bank will be the first step in the reconstruction of Austria.

England Declines To Send Warships To Rio Exhibition

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 14.—Lord Curzon in the House of Commons today called attention to the Japanese squadron which is going to Rio de Janeiro in honor of the forthcoming exhibition and suggested that the Admiralty should reconsider its decision not to send a squadron from Bermuda.

Mr. L. C. M. S. Amery replied that the Admiralty considered adequate representation would necessitate the despatch of a squadron with no fewer than two battle cruisers which would cost £50,000, and had, therefore, regretfully decided that a squadron should not be sent.

Jewish Middie's Name And Picture Left Out Of Navy Book

(China Press Service)

Washington, June 14.—Representative Seigel sent a message to Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt to investigate alleged indignities to Leonard Kaplan, a member of the graduating class of Annapolis.

The page of the Annapolis year book containing Kaplan's picture and write-up was perforated on the inside and his name omitted from the index in the rear.

Rear Admiral Wilson, superintendent of the academy characterised the deed as a "low down, miserable, trick." Kaplan is said to have made an exceptionally high grade in his studies.

Seigel said that Kaplan was of Jewish extraction and attributed the indignity to racial and religious prejudices.

Lenin Seriously Ill; To Take Rest

(China Press Service)

Washington, June 14.—A message from Riga states that Lenin's illness is extremely serious in spite of the denial by his brother yesterday. Another German brain specialist has been asked to go to Moscow from Berlin immediately and attend Lenin.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 14.—The Freiheit announces that Lenin is obliged for reasons of health to take six months leave. A triumvirate, consisting of MM. Stalin, Kameneff and Rykoff, will replace him.

M. Stalin is a Georgian Turk, M. Kameneff is the President of the Moscow Soviets and is regarded as a Liberal, while M. Rykoff was one of the first champions of the new economic policy and is believed to be liberal in his views.
